Consortium LT reports out on Inclusion and Diversity Plan

- The Consortium Leadership Team through OAESV and ODVN issued a request for proposals for this work in October 2016. We have been working with Rice Education Consulting (Redcon) for 6 months.

- Inclusion & Diversity Plan
 - Working definitions
 - Diversity – numbers of people
 - Inclusion – How are those people inside of organizations feeling
 - Cultural Competency – self-awareness & understanding of other cultures
 - Method for project:
 - Review data & documents, policies and one-on-one phone interviews of the Consortium Leadership Team
 - Findings
 - Great appreciation for having conversations
 - Recognized that there is an issue
 - Desire to change
 - Negatives
 - Lack of racial representation
 - Lack of training regarding diversity and inclusions
 - Lack of clear definition of the “who”, what, purpose of the consortium
 - Mistrust of hierarchy in the meetings
 - Lack of authenticity
 - Framework – Five P’s
 - Policy written rules
 - Programs – chances to grow
 - People – good mix of people
 - Practices – unwritten things, how to we speak and show ourselves to people
 - Promotion – how do we promote diversity

Recommendations:

Task #6 – Conduct an end of the year review

Task #5 – Create a campaign centered around the theme: “Diversity in Action”

Task #4 – Host a diversity & inclusion recognition event

Task #3 – Establish a training schedule for key stakeholders of the Consortium to continually develop their competency with regard to diversity & inclusion

Task #2 – Establish a portal of diversity and inclusion best practices to be used internally, and then shared to member agencies

Task #1 – Establish a diversity & inclusion council

- The leadership team met extensively in January to discuss attainable steps within the action plan.
- One important step leadership decided to accomplish was establishing an Inclusion and Diversity Council.
 - Application for Inclusion & Diversity Council (IDC) is due April 28th (due date has changed)
 - Members will be notified by June 8th (date has changed)
 - IDC can do some research and come up with the some best practices for Consortium and organizations across the state.
 - Diversity and Cultural Competence Training could happen during the afternoons afte the Consortium meetings.
 - Leadership is considering allocating some time to highlight inclusion and diversity work at the State Prevention Conference
 - Rather than create a new campaign, leadership suggested to work with the BeTheOne campaign to share IDC messages

Suggestions from the Consortium to the Leadership Team:

- Open up the application process out to allied organizations who may not have traditionally participated in the Consortium
- Membership is a 2-year term with the option to renew one time
- Discussion points included considering the “ask” – it may be too much and that there did not seem to be a reciprocal component for potential member.
- Reaching out to allied organizations via focus groups, surveys, etc.
- Checking for representation throughout the state within the IDC
- We need to change the culture of our work and organizations that do prevention work
- We can invite people to the party but are we asking them to dance?
- How can we avoid situations from occurring again (making POC and people from other communities feel unwelcome)
- It has to start with us!
- OAESV has an anti-oppression committee on a statewide level
- Tool to self-check biases – Project Implicit - <https://implicit.harvard.edu/implicit/takeatest.html>
- You have to be comfortable being uncomfortable.
